Tavern GM is a company founded to solve the ever looming shortage of Game Masters in the D&D community. Centralized within the Chicago land area Tavern GM works with dozens of local game shops to bring the D&D experience to those who are having a tough time finding someone to commit to running the game. Employees are experienced story tellers and game masters with a dedication to teaching newcomers! Groups who decide they want to partake in their services can sign up on TavernGM.com and find a game master close to you.

The database requested for this company will need to handle many fields to organize all the data they will be dealing with. These of course include schedules for game masters, as well as their groups they will be running games for. Game masters will be able to keep track of all of the different player groups they are working with and be able to communicate with them freely. Game masters will also have the ability to keep track of the characters their players are playing with such fields such as character level, skills, hit points, inventory, etc. They will also need to put in their own schedules so that there is transparency with their availability. Game masters will also be able to assign themselves to different local game stores that are within comfortable commuting distance from themselves.

On the part of the players they may also make their accounts on TavernGM.com. Doing so will give them access to a copy of their player sheet they can use to keep track of their characters as they play. As they enter information on these sheets it will be made available to see for their assigned GM who would be able to make edits as they deem fit. Players will be able to schedule meetings with different GMs to see who is best for them as far as table compatibility, meeting availability, and comfort goes. Each player will receive a player ID which will be used to keep track of what players are working with which GM as well as how many games a player is in, as well as how many players a GM is running games for.
